

Viruses delaying mail

There seems to be a build-up of mail on the server which looks like the result of a lot of viruses getting sent around.

This has caused a backlog and is delaying delivery of legitimate mail. We're looking at ways of encouraging the mail queue to clear itself out faster.

We turned spam-checking off temporarily and MailScanner ripped through the queue and removed all the viruses. Unfortunately you would have got a bit of extra spam, but we'll turn it back on now.
