

Mail Server Problems

One of our customers has managed to mail bomb us due to a problem with a looping script. Consequently mail services have been rather unreliable all morning. We have currently restored normal mail services and are working to retrieve any legitimate mail that was delivered earlier this morning. In the meantime the server is continuing to experience a high load and there may be some slowness in accessing mail and web services. Please accept our apologies if this is causing any inconvenience.